

New Organizations Offering Team Expertise in Research, Diagnostics, and Treatment of Unusual and Aggressive Cancers

Two recently new (2009/2010) organizations have teamed up Medical Oncologists, Pathologists, and other physicians and scientists from around the globe, to provide the combined expertise of these experts in research, state-of-the-art diagnostics, and treatment for the various cancers. I have no idea if one's insurance would cover the expertise and testing provided by these organizations, so personal finances must be considered.

As noted by Intervention Insights, below, candidates include:

- Patients who have exhausted standard-of-care therapies
- Newly diagnosed patients with aggressive cancers with poor first-line response rates
- Patients with rare tumor types that have less well-defined standard-of-care therapies
- Patients with very aggressive cancers that have a high mortality rate with first-line standard-of-care therapy

For those interested visit the websites identified below for further information:

“International Strategic Cancer Alliance (ISCA)” in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
(<http://www.is-canceralliance.com/>)

and

“Intervention Insights” in Grand Rapids, Michigan
(<http://interventioninsights.com/>)